

Case File 6-1-2008

Montebello, California

Private residence

Sunday June 1, 2008

It was a beautiful day, the sun was bright and the day was warm.

The CSGR group (California Society for Ghost Research), Chad Patterson, President and Don Neudecker Vice-President responded to a distress call, from an owner of a private residence, their names are Monica and daughter Paola, in Montebello, California.

We arrive at this nice house in Montebello, California, serene and tranquil atmosphere but HAUNTED.

Inside the house, I saw a male spirit; he was standing in the hallway leaning on the wall.

The male spirit was around six feet and two inches tall thin build body, he was dress with a off white color shirt (according to the residence daughter Paola, she saw a glitch of the male spirit dressed like her father, with a white shirt with strips on it. Spirits tend to change the colors of their clothes but actually in the spirit world and in between dimensions; the spirits are pure energy, no clothes).

The male spirit also had pants like Jeans but not quite. His hair was long covering his neck with a very handsome face.

The male spirit was humming a song, I recognized, it was “The sound of silence” by Simon and Garfunkel.

The male spirit followed Paola from Buenos Aires, Argentina to the United State.

The male spirit told me that he was lonely and Paola was lonely too, so the male spirit thought that both needed each other, that is why he followed Paola home to Montebello, California.

The spirit told and showed me how he encountered Paola, it was in a cemetery in Buenos Aires, Argentina, Paola was there with her friend, he noticed her sadness in her heart and he felt related to her emotions then he placed his left arm on to her shoulders.

The male spirit name was Martin De Bascos (or Basques)

Conclusion

The house in Montebello was haunted.

By Request of the owner I send the spirit to the light of God, now Martin is at peace with God and the owner of the house is at peace again.
